"My favorite nation is imagination.
And children know the way!"

– Karma's Collection: A Cozy Mini-Mystery

My Mental Girlfriend

Away from the man-made rules of sanity and into a world I can't describe I could see her when no one else could Holding her with closed eyes
My tears were lighter when I was with her which was almost all the time And through Reality was my rightful home
I felt more free inside her mind

And, like a dream, she'd come to me and re-arrest my best attention Her requests for company were meek but never needed mention All the while and since then every smile, she'd be in
And so I dedicate this poem to my
"Mental Girlfriend."

With her last name being "Nation"
and her first name being "Image,"
when I pronounce the 2 together,
I have to smile at the end.
She was a journey from afar,
an emotional vacation
She was my "Mental Girlfriend": Imagination

Whether it was rain or it was shine her open mind was filled with wonder Days of thunder never succeeded in persuading her away Within weeks we agreed that what we had would pay to stay addicted to a life of fiction, needing it every day.
I lived the world that we conceived based on the things that I believed To dodge the pain and felt and seen...
I sacrificed reality.
I teased the scary times with a married mind to a life that wasn't real.
And while inside me, she did guide me inside a state one can only feel...

With her last name being "Nation,"
and her first name being "Image,"
when I pronounce the 2 together
I can't help my smile at the end.
There's pain in everything I saw
But no need for alcohol!
Just her name I'd simply call: Imagination

So when I pray for those who stay inside this world when I'm away I pray they save the "attitude" that many loose as they were kids.
I never shook off anything that helped me tolerate the fate that life would give
And so I lived each day in decided happiness.
Imagination won the fight Imagination was the flight far away from a wrong world,
and into a feeling that felt so right.
Intoxicated ever since,
by her essence and her presence
My "Mental Girlfriend" to the end: Imagination

So with her first name written "Image"
And her maiden name as "Nation," who can't say her name and reflex with a smile at the end?
If you read inside my mind,
it explains those memorable times when, to the world, my eyes were blind: Imagination

Image + Nation = Imagination

A special dedication to all who "know the way!" It's God's gift to us. Take care of my "girlfriend."
God Bless.
